Subject: Microsoft Settlement

First let me state that the trial which led to a requirement to break Microsot into some number of companies to be an absolute travesty of Justice.

I do not see Microsoft to be any more of a monopoly then IBM was in the late 1960's and 1970's as regards to mainframes. Were any actions ever taken against IBM? Whatever happened to UNIVAC , XEROX, and a myriad of other mainframe builders? I consider myself a data processing professional, and not only do I agree with the proposed settlement, but I would be in favosr of dropping all charges against Microsoft. If you believe Microsoft is a monopoly how do you explain the successes of Apple OS and LINUX. Jules C.
